

Cookie and Local Storage Policy

Last updated: 2026-07-24

1. Scope

This policy explains the limited use of cookies and browser storage on the public inAi company website at `https://www.inai.world` (the “Website”).

It does not describe separate product applications or third-party websites reached through external links. Those services are governed by their own notices.

2. What the Website stores

The Website currently uses one first-party preference value:

Name	Technology	Purpose	Value	Duration
<code>inai-theme-preference</code>	First-party cookie and browser local storage	Remembers a manual light or dark override selected through the Website’s theme control. When this value is absent, the Website follows the operating-system preference.	<code>light</code> or <code>dark</code>	Cookie: up to 12 months. Local storage: until you return to system mode, change this choice or clear browser data.

Before you select a theme, the Website may follow your browser or operating-system colour preference without storing a new preference value.

The theme value does not identify an account, follow you across unrelated websites, or record which pages you visit.

3. Technologies not currently used

- The Website does not currently use:
- analytics or audience-measurement cookies;
 - advertising, retargeting, or cross-site tracking cookies;
 - A/B testing or experimentation cookies;
 - tracking pixels, browser fingerprinting, or behavioural profiles; or
 - a third-party cookie consent platform.

Because the only Website storage described above records an interface choice expressly requested by the visitor, the Website does not display a consent banner for it.

If inAi later introduces a non-essential cookie or tracker, it will update this policy and, where required, obtain consent before that technology is activated.

4. External links

The Website contains links to external websites. Following one of those links takes you to a service controlled by another organisation. That organisation may use cookies or similar technologies under its own policies. inAi does not place or control those third-party technologies merely by providing an ordinary link.

5. Your controls

You can:

- use the Website's theme control to change the stored theme value;
- delete the `inai-theme-preference` cookie and local-storage value through your browser settings; or
- configure your browser to block cookies or local storage.

If persistence is blocked or cleared, the Website will continue to function, but your selected theme may not remain in place on a later visit.

6. Controller and contact

The controller for the Website is:
